

significant political and economic transformations that continue to shape intercultural communication.

The development of new ethical norms and principles in intercultural communication is a crucial aspect of the study of world history. Throughout history, different societies and cultures have clashed and evolved, leading to the formation of distinct cultural norms and beliefs. It is important to note that the ethics of intercultural communication cannot be precisely defined due to the differences in mentalities.

A. Tarasenko

А.П. Тарасенко

МИ МВД РБ (Могилев)

Научный руководитель Е.Н. Лаппо

ROLE OF MUSIC IN LEARNING FOREIGN LANGUAGE

Роль музыки в изучении иностранного языка

Is it important now to speak a foreign language? It's obvious that learning a foreign language is a good opportunity to develop communication skills with people from other countries. Also, the benefit of learning languages is a raise interest for studying our native language. For example, while studying the language in classes most learners get much information not only about the language itself and about culture of the foreign country, but also deepen knowledge about their own country. That's why they have possibility to compare different phenomena from both sides.

About 20 percent of the world's population speaks English. It is no secret that it is now the official international language. Many people learn English in order to travel freely, to enter international labor markets and simply to communicate with different people. The purpose of this work is to define and analyse the role of music for today's English learners.

Well, it's worth mentioning how music in general affects people. It is no secret that music can raise the mood or vice versa it can be lowered. People have a keen sense of musical rhythms and good, calm music has a positive effect on the whole body and especially on the nervous system.

The problem of modern time is the lack of sleep, rest. Much of this time is stolen by social networks. The question arises: "Where can we take the time to learn foreign languages?" There are different ways to learn English. And I'd like to tell you about the simplest method to achieve at least elementary level in English. So, we can combine business with pleaser. It is really easy way to find out new words and phrases. Nowadays, it is impossible to imagine youth's life without music: they are listening to music everywhere while walking, eating, working out, showering.

So why can music, particularly songs be considered a useful tool? Firstly, songs have clear and common lyrics. The speakers hum them and go about their daily routine. There is nothing stopping us from repeating after singers. With doing this we can improve our pronunciation skills, we can hear how words actually sound in real speech. All songs have refrain that is memorable, and one hundred percent will get stuck in your head. And it is easy to implement learning on a daily basis. You can listen to music while you are in a bus, while you are brushing your teeth and doing any other routine. Also, by incorporating foreign music into your routine, you can get a lot of motivation from lyrics. Usually performers influence not only people's behavior but also their thinking. Their songs are often charged with senses and ideologies.

And I'm also sure that you know that basic phrases from popular song, like "Believer" or "What is love?", "American Boy". Famous performers know exactly how to interest you in their songs. Light rhythms, simple lyrics and maybe also relevant topic make it to achieve popularity. Their texts always contain actual phrases and slang that are relevant for today's language speaking environment. And it doesn't depend on what country the song is made in. And one can try to be a singer too. Learners can even use funny and relaxing "karaoke". Also, significant moment in learning English through music is to find texts and even learn by heart.

For example, when I am listening to a song my technique is simple: I listen to a song that I originally didn't know, without lyrics, and I don't really understand the meaning. I analyze how many familiar words I have heard. I listen again, and I try to catch the meaning in the lines. Usually, the lyrics touch me very much and I study the lyrics. I write, separate, phrases I memorize them. Then, in the following auditions quietly sing along, not coming up with "new" words by Lana Del Rey I'm really remember good phrases that could be used in daily life.

So, here we see the practical use of music. Introducing music is an effective method for memorizing simple phrases and words. If you take it more seriously, the benefits will be greater. But there are disadvantages in this method. For example, some singers do not take into account the nuances of the vocabulary of the language and do not adhere to the rules. This can mislead learners. So, learners should understand that musical material can neglect some rules and be attentive.